SUPERINTENDENT DISCHARGES MATRON

OHIO WOMAN'S REFORMATORY INVESTIGATION IS BOILING

Mrs. Laura Kissinger, of Columbus, dismissed after she had resigned—She Was In Charge of Elizabeth College, and Was Held responsible for Mabel Champion's Escape a Week Ago.

Mrs. Laura Kissinger, of Columbus, night matron at the Ohio Women's Reformatory at Marysville, was discharged Monday by Mrs. Louise Mittendorf, superintendent as a result of the escape of Mabel Champion, a Cleveland murderess, a week ago last Sunday.

Mrs. Mittendorf's action was the first official move on her part following State Welfare Director Harper's statement that the investigation of the escape was directly up to the superintendent.

Harper's statement was received by Mrs. Mittendorf at noon Monday. It was issued as a result of a personal inquiry made at the institution by Harper Friday.

Mrs. Kissinger was in charge at night in Elizabeth cottage and Mrs. Champion was her assistant. Since the escape, the matron has been on duty nightly. She worked Sunday night and was in bed Monday when Mrs. Mittendorf wrote out the formal order for her dismissal. Mrs. Kissinger already had resigned, effective April 15, to accept a similar position in Michigan. Monday's action severs her connection here immediately.

Acting on a "tip" from Cleveland Mrs. Emma Colavito, Cleveland, and that plans were on foot to liberate Mrs. Emma Dehlman, Dayton, both serving life terms, Mrs. Mittendorf ordered the two women transferred from Elizabeth cottage under heavy guard to the institution "strong house."

Mrs. Mittendorf indicated that she did not believe that either of the women had knowledge of the alleged plot.

Report Denied.

The women will be behind bars the same as other inmates in the "strong house," known as Harmon hall. Mrs. Mittendorf denied the reports that a padlock on Mrs. Colavito's room at Elizabeth hall was filed half way in two.

The transfer will place Mrs. Colavito and Mrs. Dan Kaber, Lakewood prisoner, together. Both are unfriendly due to the testimony developed at the Kaber trial in Cleveland.

Mrs. Kaber and Mrs. Colavito will not work together, but will eat in the same dining room," Mrs. Mittendorf said.

Famous Brittany Church Destroyed by Lightning

Morlaix, France.—Fire destroyed the Fifteenth-century church of St. Jean-du-Doligt, near here, one of the most famous shrines in Brittany, during a storm. Lightning struck and set fire to an adjoining house and the flames ignited the church steeple. The villagers formed a bucket brigade, but their efforts were fruitless, and many wept as they saw their beloved church consumed. The famous reliquary containing a finger of John the Baptist, which drew pilgrims from all Brittany, was saved, as were the ancient sacred vessels.

Land Bought for $60 Now Returns Millions

Pottsville, Pa.—By a real estate deal completed at Miami, Fla., Mrs. Olivia Ellsler, of Philadelphia, and Miss Erma Ellsler, of this city, will share total proceeds of close to $1,000,000. Mrs. Ellsler was a waitress in a hotel before her marriage to John Ellsler, and is said to be visiting in California at present. The property in Miami, which has now been sold, was purchased by the mother of Miss Ellsler in 1894 from the United States government for $60, the deed being signed by President Cleveland.

For years Mrs. Ellsler was the subject of jokes among her acquaintances as to her Florida investment, the land being considered absolutely worthless. But when Miami began developing the little tract in the wilderness soon was overtaken by the building boom and in her exuberance she named the tract "Princess Park."

Dispatches have been received here from Miami stating that all the lots in the tract had been sold for $745,000 through a local real estate company. Joseph M. Smith, of Philadelphia, represented Mrs. Ellsler at the sale, and James J. Moran, of Pottsville, represented Miss Ellsler. Previous to this lots were sold for more than $250,000. The tract is booming because of the belief that it is in line for additional trackage and a station of the Florida East Coast railroad.

Miss Ellsler stated she will continue to live in her modest little home here uninfluenced by her fortune. She allowed many Pottsville residents to share in her good fortune by selling lots to them, and they later made 500 per cent on their holdings. James J. Moran, of Pottsville, developed the property for Miss Ellsler. Mrs. Ellsler, of Philadelphia, became an heir to the property through her husband, who died in 1921.

South American Birds Act as Sheep Herders

Husum, Wash.—A South American bird, called the yakamiks, is just as efficient a sheep herder as the collie, declares August Boeller, owner of large flocks near by. A cousin shipped two young yakamiks to Boeller last summer from Venezuela and now, matured, they are inseparable from the sheep.

The yakamiks are a sort of crane, long domesticated in Venezuela, and, dog-like, showed marked faithfulness and intelligence regarding sheep herding. In the day the long-legged birds wobble around the edge of the sheep bands, keeping watch for foes and wanderers. When darkness comes they fall in at the rear until the sheep are corralled, then seek a roosting place on the highest object found.

Like geese, they eat forage with the sheep. The yakamiks are adept in attacking and beating off eagles, coyotes, foxes and will even go after bears and wolves, beating them with wings and stabbing with needle-like beaks. Mistaking Boeller's dogs for foes the two yakamiks have kept the collies in a state of fear for several months.

The Power Behind The Savings Dollar

By WILLIAM E. KNOX

President American Bankers Association

A recent compilation made by the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers Association showed that in the six years since the war our total savings deposits have risen from $11,600,000,000 to nearly $21,000,000,000, an increase of some $9,400,000,000. The total number of savings depositors is reported at about 28,800,000.

William E. Knox

The full significance of this is realized only when we visualize savings deposits as meaning much more than merely dollars in the banks. They really mean an increase in the accumulated productive capital of the country, since money deposited in the banks as savings is promptly applied by the bankers in the purchase of securities by which plant, railroad and other industrial development is made possible. These figures mean, therefore, that the small savings of many millions of people, instead of being frittered away in the purchase of goods that are immediately consumed, which involves a destruction of capital, are gathered together and applied in the better utilization of capital through the upbuilding of industrial equipment. This means the preservation and perpetuation of the country's physical wealth and its application to the production of further wealth more easily and in larger volume, resulting in a higher standard of living for all classes in the country.

These tremendous savings figures indicate sound habits of thought and practice on the part of millions of people in their personal economic affairs. This is an asset of no small value in appraising our present business outlook. It is, in fact, one of the most promising elements in the situation today. It means that we not only have the resources for prosperity, but also enough common sense to make good use of them.

FORCING LOWER TAXES

Gerard B. Winston, Undersecretary of the Treasury in the American Bankers Association Journal says, "The burden of taxes must be lightened. Per capita Federal taxes rose from $32 in 1918 to $54 in 1920; then commenced to drop, and have been successively $45, $32, $28, $29 in the last four fiscal years. It is estimated that for the next fiscal year the figure will be about $27. With the states and municipalities the opposite tendency is disclosed. In 1918 their per capita tax was something over $20. In the next four years it rose to $27, $30, $36, $38, and later figures will undoubtedly show further increases."

He says of excessive death taxes that "examples have been cited of how the states and Federal government, under existing laws, can take more than 100 per cent of an estate. If Federal and state governments take more than the particular source of taxation can stand, it will ultimately destroy all revenue from that source. After a man has provided for the reasonable requirements of living, the impetus to further production is largely the desire to leave one's family well provided for. So long as the individual feels that he can pay the tax and still leave an estate to his family, he will increase his efforts; but a man will not seek to build up a large fortune just to have it taken away from his family at his death."

STORE CREDIT COSTS 26 PER CENT.

In a survey of 800 farms made by the North Carolina Experiment Station, it was found that over 40 per cent of the total credit needs for the farmer is for short term loans, either through the bank or through merchant advances. Only one-sixth of this amount comes from banks and the rest from stores or landlords. For store credit farmers are paying over 26 per cent interest, and only a little better than half of the farmers realized this fact. The bank rate of interest at the same time was only a trifle above 6 per cent. Practically all merchants would be delighted to go over to a cash basis.

The remedy lies in the production of more food and feed and in the discontinuance of shipping in hay and grain with their attendant high freight rates and dealers' profits. This means the establishment of better working relations between bankers and farmers, for there is great opportunity for educating the farmer along the line of bank credit.—Banker-Farmer.

UNDER NATURAL LAWS

Great changes are occurring in the agricultural situation. Gloom and gloom are giving way to renewed hope. We all rejoice that this is happening. It is being brought about through the immutable and inexorable natural laws. It is as difficult to legislate prosperity as to attempt by law to make folks honest. Agriculture in the last analysis operates under about the same basic laws as any other business.—P. B. Doty, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

Patriot's Early Death

Thomas Lynch, one of the youngest signers of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, was lost at sea in 1779. He was born in 1749, and was not quite twenty-seven when he signed as delegate for South Carolina.

Valuable Ancient Chart

In a chart dated 1436 Andrea Bianco a Venetian chartmaker, shows two islands west of the Azores, which he names "Antilla" and "De Laman Santaxio." Some authorities say this indicates a knowledge of the Americas.

MRS. DONAHEY HEADS MAY DAY COMMITTEE

Friday, May 1st, Has Been Set Aside For Celebration of Child Health Day.

Mrs. A. V. Donahey, wife of Governor Donahey, has consented to serve as honorary chairman of a state-wide committee to promote the celebration of May Day, Friday, May 1st as Child Health Day.

"The idea of setting apart one day in the year on which public attention is to be focused upon a general community interest in our children strikes a sympathetic chord in every American heart," said Mrs. Donahey in accepting the chairmanship of the Ohio May Day Committee.

"May Day is a most appropriate time for taking stock on our local conditions which affect the health and welfare of our future citizens and to celebrate the return of children to the playgrounds by festivals and other traditional customs. It is also well to remember with gifts of flowers and in other ways the little shut-ins—our sick and crippled children on this occasion.

"Let us make May Day an annual Child Health Day in Ohio to the end that every day may see improvement in conditions which affect the youth of our state. The men and women who are concerning themselves with community betterment for the sake of our children are engaged in a noble cause and I bespeak for them every success in their efforts."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Kanakas Plan to Show Sailors Their Volcano

Hilo, Island of Hawaii.—Every sailor of the United States fleet, which is to visit the territory next spring for maneuvers, will be given an opportunity to visit the volcano of Kilauea, thirty miles up the slopes from Hilo, the greatest continually active crater in the world.

Avalanches and earthquakes now compose Kilauea's activities almost solely, 47 earth shocks having been recorded at the volcano observatory in the week ended December 17.

Since the volcano's latest violent eruption, in May, 1924, there has been slight activity at the fire pit of Halemaumau. The dimensions of the crater, increased greatly by last May's activity, are approximately 3,500 by 3,000 feet, with a depth of about 1,300 feet.

Array of Colors in Spring Modes

Pleasing Tints Characterize Dainty Models Fea- tured in South.

The southern playgrounds of the affluent have made demand for a wardrobe that seems to indicate the styles for spring and early summer. The presentation of these styles, observes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, is a boon to the woman of fashion.

There is just now a wealth of ideas drawn from the highest sources of art and adapted somewhat after past experience to the requirements of the chic American woman. With as keen enthusiasm as that at the fashion year's beginning, the costume makers of Paris and America and the smart shopkeepers prepare for the Palm Beach season. Because the creme de la creme gather at these holiday places of the southern seashores the very best is given to them, and the world at large benefits because these early models forecast established styles. They have never been more intriguing than they are this year.

Since the advance models were shown, immediately after the final sale of winter clothes and sports togs, new ideas in every type of dress of the lighter sort are being displayed. The variants are a delight. There are new styles, graceful lines, beautiful fabrics and colors that seem to have depleted the artist's full palette. They are the styles that will carry on until the distinctly summer things make their appearance.

Great Array of Colors.

The spring flowers that fill the big shop windows rival the fabrics that are displayed in quantities. Roving about where manufacturers and importers display their wares, one finds entertainment all the way in the colors that ravish the eyes. In the windows of one dignified establishment alone are shown, in festoons and draperies, soft crepes in apple green, violet, cyclamen pink, leaf brown and salmon. Where only silk is dealt in you see orange, corn silk, yellow, cafe-au-lait and tiger lily alternated with mignonette, reseda and absinthe green.

Lilac pulsates between violet, mauve and iris purple, and the cool shades are lost in orgies of color that are almost intoxicating. All of these are in silk, which is the piece de resistance in this young season. Whether presented in crepe, chiffon, georgette or whatever it must still be of the nature of silk.

In the fabrics that are intended for the semi-tropics it is imperative that the designers shall be acquainted with certain color values and contrasts. For these in the Avenue recognize the effect of southern atmospheric conditions, the deadly purple and hibiscus red. Vivid colors that are so lovely under northern skies take on a harsh brilliance in tropical sun rays and ocean sparkle. To be comfortable to the sight clothes must be softened for sunlight and moonlight.

In every phase of dress color is emphasized this season, and grows more important as styles are evolved. So many colors and shades are shown that it is quite impossible to select any one as being all the rage, but one is so conspicuously lovely as to have a distinct vogue all its own. It is that dignified, pure soft pink which the artists call by its floral name, cyclamen.

It is presented in the finest materials of soft texture—in crepe, marquisette and chiffon particularly. It is one of those colors that is not easily combined with another. The handsomest gowns done in cyclamen pink are self-trimmed, or are ornamented with crystal, pearl or silver beads in some delicate pattern, and are often edged with fringe. Cyclamen is one of the few colors that serve well as a background for designs outlined in beads, and some charming models are shown in its combination.

In the lightweight sports suits and frocks for morning and general street wear colors are gentler than they were last season and the season preceding. "Natural" is the name describing the shade of material which is now most in vogue for spring frocks.

There is natural kasha, for example, the soft wheat-colored material that resembles old-style camel's hair and has all of the lovable qualities of that staple among fine dress fabrics. Engaging models of this tone are shown in the Rodier materials, in tunic frocks and two-piece suits. Invariably they are built along the simplest lines, almost primitive in their composition, presenting all of the new details, but without exaggeration.

Three-Piece Suit in Beige Velours, for Early Spring Wear.

One delightful ensemble just brought out is made of natural kasha in a shade that is almost cafe-au-lait. The straight, naively simple frock is short, being 14 inches from the floor, and narrow. Above the hips a front panel forming a waistcoat of flame-colored crepe is added. The seven-eighths length coat of the woolen stuff is lined with the crepe matching the waistcoat, and a piping of this and black outlines the long, narrow collar lapel, the cuff bands and a strap that goes about the hips, crossing in front.

A soft hat of the kasha cloth, the crown square and rather high and the small brim slightly rolling, has a simple band of red for its trimming.

Jean Patou does an ensemble of much elegance in gray, displaying an entirely new style of coat. The gown itself is straight and close, of a clinging variety of broadcloth, and the coat, a little less than three-quarters length, is treated in an original manner, bands of black velvet being used at intervals to form a horizontal trimming, ending each in a point at the low waistline. The velvet forms narrow turnover collar and cuffs and is used in the pointed crown of a small hat in which folds of rush-colored crepe form the front of crown and the narrow brim.

In another model that is quite alluring a frock of cornsilk crepe is elaborated with narrow bands of needlework in warm colors about the skirt.

Uses Fur in Suit.

Lucien Lelong is another of the comparatively new school who is doing some delightfully original suits in wool with the addition of fur. This season he is an apostle of quiet color. A model he is apparently proud of is a three-piece suit of gray ottoman, the frock straight, narrow, short and untrimmed, the coat a full-length wrap-around, giving the new circular effect, with a slightly flaring flounce added at the knee. Horizontal tucking elaborates the coat, and is reversed in vertical lines in the flounce. Chinchilla forms a rolling collar, cuffs and band about the hem, and the coat closes with a sort of cascade.

In a suit of simpler composition Jenny uses ottoman silk in bloodstone green. The frock has an unbroken waistline, which ends below the hip, and is trimmed with three five-inch bands of the silk in a lighter shade, sewed on straight. A short box coat, somewhat like an eton jacket in style, is finished with a choker collar and a scarf, to which are added touches of the lighter green.

In design, apparently everything goes—the straight-line, the circular, gogets and the tunic. Some of the prominent creators achieve intriguing results in combinations and compromises. Jenny succeeds conspicuously in a gown of black satin made with a long, straight waist and long, tight sleeves. Around the chest is drawn a band of gilt embroidery that is finished with an ornamental bit of fringe in front. This trimming band, to which are added three fringed medallions, draws the frock close around the body, forming a sort of girdle below the hips and serves to finish the seam of a godet flounce that lies flat at the back and ripples full in front.

A swagger novelty in three-piece costumes is presented in jade green brocade de laine. Black satin is used to outline the open front with long, narrow lapels and to give the effect of hip line drawn upward at the front. Black fox forms the high close collar and the deep cuff bands. The frock is of white georgette, laid in narrow platts from yoke to hem and held with a girdle of black satin.

ELK STARVE RATHER THAN DIG FOR FOOD

The elk herds in Yellowstone park are safe from the hunter while they remain in bounds, but the government has been unable to save a thousand or more of them from starvation every year.

The park rangers, who are the guardians of the herds, are kept on their toes the whole winter long to see the elk get enough food to survive the season, according to C. O. Campbell of Billings, Mont. Mr. Campbell goes out every season to get the one elk the law allows to each hunter.

"As soon as the animals get used to having food dumped out of motor trucks," he says, "they lose their gameness and refuse to fight for existence. It's impossible to feed them all the time, and after one big treat of government hay, they will go away and starve to death rather than paw under the snow for enough to keep them alive."

"The hay usually is piled in a corral and the elk are allowed in for a certain length of time and then driven out to make way for a new lot. They seem to know they are safe inside the park."

AMUSEMENTS

An exceedingly dramatic situation occurs in Fred Nibo's "The Red Lily" the Metro-Goldwyn production which came to the Met theater yesterday. A young man of wealth has been disinherited by his father for falling in love with a girl of poor parents and has fled with her to Paris. They lose each other there and are drawn into the underworld. Years later the man now a thief sought by the police is lured into the room of a woman of the streets. In her he recognizes the lost sweetheart of his youth. At the same instant she realizes that this disreputable gamine before her is the lost idol of her dreams.

This tense moment is superbly played by Roman Novarro and Enid Bennett. The cast includes Wallace Beery, Rosemary Theby, George Periolat, Frank Currier and Mitchell Lewis. Bess Meredyth adapted the original Fred Nibo story for this immense production which is presented by Louis B. Mayer.

KEEPING WELL

ARE YOU HYPER-SENSITIVE?

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

IN A recent article, I discussed the peculiar effect that certain substances have on some people. You have all known such cases. Some persons cannot eat strawberries, some are poisoned by lobster or clams. Roses cause severe colds in some, while goldenrod is unbearable to others. This peculiarity is called an idiosyncrasy or hypersensitiveness.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Francis R. Rackemann, of the Massachusetts General hospital, tells of a number of hypersensitive persons who have been admitted as patients in this great institution.

One man, a chemist in the dye department of a large woolen mill, has asthma whenever he goes into the chemical laboratory but has no trouble when he stays away from the laboratory. On careful testing, he was found to be hypersensitive to a certain kind of dye. The dye had no effect on any one else in the laboratory. Fifteen other dyes had no effect on him.

Another man worked in a grain and feed store, where he came in contact with malt and hops. Malt produced asthma but no other grain had any effect on him.

A leather worker, suffering from joint rheumatism, was forced to stay at home for a long period, during which he had no asthma. As soon as he returned to work, the asthma reappeared. It was found that leather dust would cause an attack in a few hours.

Another man, employed as an assistant in the hospital laboratory, had to give up his position, as he developed asthma whenever he came in contact with rabbits or guinea pigs.

Orris root is used in the manufacture of some kinds of face powder. On most women, this powder has no effect, except to take the shine off their noses. On a few women, the powder seems to affect the inside of their noses rather than the outside, causing constant colds, with sneezing and a watery discharge, all of which disappeared when the use of the powder was stopped.

Thirty-six patients had asthma whenever they came in contact with a horse. Several men employed in bakeries had asthma brought on by flour dust.

Why are some persons sensitive to certain substances which ordinarily do not have any effect? No one knows. There is probably some chemical difference in their bodies which makes some things poisonous to them which are harmless to most of us. Dr. Rackemann suggests that it may be for the same reason that some persons will "take" a disease while others will not. When we know why one child gets scarlet fever while his brothers or playmates are immune, we will know a great deal more than we do now about diseases and their effect on the human body.

GOOD POINTS ON SPARK CONTROL

Correct Use of Lever Has Much to Do With Efficiency of Machine.

Need the position of the spark lever be changed, after the car is once well under way?

That question occurs to not a few of the less experienced automobile drivers during these days when operating the motor car may be classed as one of the most popular pastimes.

Intelligent and correct use of the spark lever has much to do with the efficient operation of a car and tends to insure the proper functioning of the motor vehicle's intricate and in many respects delicate mechanism. Some car owners needlessly shorten the length of service they would get from their cars by carelessness in handling the spark control.

Don't Alter Position.

Except when going over unusually rough roads, there is no need to alter the position of the spark lever in ordinary driving after it is once set, since it is designed to run through a fairly varied range of speed. But in climbing a stiff grade, most motorists speed their cars to take the hill with a terrific rush because they do not want to shift gears. The engine will stand this abuse for some time before it begins to make its disgust audible with knocks and rattles.

Knocks of a motor which is laboring in going uphill are due to premature firing, the spark igniting the gas on the compression stroke; the explosion tries to force the piston head back before it has passed dead center, producing a sharp metallic thump.

This would not occur, of course, on a level road unless the car were very heavily loaded, since the crankshaft revolves fast enough to bring the piston past dead center and on the downward stroke before the pressure of the exhaust is effective.

Should Be Advanced.

At all times the spark should be advanced as far as possible without causing the motor to knock; a spark which is slower than this tends to cause overheating and carbonizing. The best and briefest advice is: Get acquainted with the sound of your motor and adjust the spark accordingly.

Storage Battery Point

A vital point to remember in connection with the storage battery is that at a temperature of 10 degrees Fahrenheit its efficiency drops about 50 per cent. Also, it is much more difficult to crank the motor because of the effect of the lower temperature on the lubrication. Because of the incomplete vaporization of the fuel when the motor is cold, slightly more cranking is required to start the motor.

Handy Brake Wrench

When brakes on automobile are adjusted by wing nuts the owner or mechanic often has considerable trouble making the adjustment because of the awkward location of the nut. A wrench that can be made in a few minutes by anyone will obviate this difficulty. A piece of one-inch pipe is selected and slotted, the length of the pipe being determined for the car on which it is to be used. By means of a small rod passed through holes drilled in the top of the pipe, the work is easily accomplished.

Carelessness Causes Trouble

Many drivers forget that present trouble may date back to a period of carelessness when the car was compelled to carry an overweight of from 100 to 200 pounds and that the tire had been insufficiently inflated most of the time. The fact that there is no overload or underinflation at the moment of the blowout proves nothing.

Method of Foiling Car Thieves or Joy Riders

A simple and effective method to foil auto thieves or joyriders is shown in the drawing. Drill and tap a hole in the intake manifold for a three-eighths-inch pipe or tube fitting, and connect a length of pipe or tubing to extend back to the dash. The open end is flared out a trifle to receive a wooden plug made to fit snugly. When the plug is in place, the engine will run normally but when the plug is removed, so much air is admitted to the cylinder that no combustion can take place and therefore the car cannot very well be run off on its own power. If, however, the engine is started by excessive use of the choke, the firing will be so erratic that the thief will be glad to abandon the car in a block or so. Of course, the plugged end of the tube should be located in an unnoticeable place behind the instrument board.—Richard P. Cole, Paterson, N. J., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Battery Location Most Persistent Car Problem

From time to time the question of storage battery location has cropped up as one of the most persistent problems that the chassis designer is compelled to face. The public has demanded free running boards, and for this reason there has been a decided drop in the number of batteries carried on them; simultaneously the under-the-seat method has grown in prominence. Battery service stations have found, however, that the heat of the engine has a marked effect on batteries carried under the seats in the front compartment. If any one has had occasion to touch the tools under the seat in the course of a run on a hot day he undoubtedly has been surprised to find the amount of heat absorbed by them. If this heat reaches the tools in the compartment, wrapped in their case, it will reach the battery well to a much greater extent, and the result is that the water is evaporated at a rapid rate and the instructions to the owner to refill his battery every two weeks are entirely inadequate.

This is a big problem, because it involves millions of dollars' worth of property. Heat must be carried away from the battery, and the blast of hot air which comes from the engine is the worst medium that could be found to do it. If the battery must be carried under the seat, let us have the air baffled so that cool and not hot air will strike the battery container well.

Wastes Oil

Many drivers do not like to stop the engine when having their engines filled with oil. The result is that the breeze from the fan blows away an appreciable quantity of oil. This may be prevented by wiring a tire windshield on the proper side of the oil measure.

Paint Rubber Mat

Rubber matting that has been in use for some time and is beginning to look the worse for wear, may be restored to respectability by painting it with lead-colored paint. This gives a varnished surface that is not only oilproof but is easily cleaned with a cloth.

Blow Light "On" Now

To "blow out" the light was a common expression in the days of oil lamps and candles, but with the advent of a new electric flashlight, the expression "blow on" the light will likely take hold. An ingenious inventor has produced a turbine flashlight for pocket use that resembles a whistle and as it has no battery to run down will last indefinitely. By blowing through the mouthpiece, a tiny turbine is set going and to producing electricity which is carried to the bulb.

Of Course

"It's a good idea sometimes to 'say it with flowers.'"

ANTI-DAZZLE LIGHTS UNDER CAR BODY

A new anti-dazzle motor car lighting device has been invented by A. Kellway Rumber, an Englishman. It consists of five magnifying glasses placed directly under the body of the car. Illuminated by electricity, acetylene or other means, the lamp throws strong direct rays along the road beneath the vehicle throwing the car into clear view from all sides. The front and bottom lenses are clear, the off-side and back lenses are red, and the rear-side lenses green. The light is passed through a small trapdoor in the floor of the car, and it is claimed to be a simple and effective method. The photograph shows the new under-car lighting device in service. This picture was taken at night and shows how completely the car is illuminated by the new light.

VITAL NEED METBY PROBATION ACT

AUTHOR OF MEASURE EN-ACTED BY LAST CONGRESS SAYS.

Bill Grants To Federal Judges Prerogative Exercised Hitherto In State Courts Only.

Washington, April 4.—In the closing rush of Congress one of the most interesting and important measures enacted into law at the late session was passed.

This is the act establishing a probation system in the United States Courts. Under this act Federal Judges in Ohio and other states will have the power (which they never before possessed) to suspend sentences in certain cases and otherwise apply the probation methods which have been used so successfully in the state Courts.

The bill was introduced in the House of Representatives by George S. Graham, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee. Commenting on the passage of the bill, Mr. Graham said:

"This act will meet a need which has long been felt in the Federal Courts.

The bill, as passed, authorizes the Judges of the United States Courts to suspend sentence in suitable cases and places persons on probation under rules established by the Courts. The Federal Courts also are authorized to appoint probation officers, one paid officer being allowed in each Court, salaries to be fixed by the Judges.

"The bill was prepared and has been strongly supported by the National Probation Association, an organization of Judges and other persons interested in extending and improving probation work. The association has urged the passage of this bill in previous Congresses."

Charles L. Shutt, General Secretary of the National Probation Association, stated in Washington today that the principal object of the bill is to enable Federal Courts to discriminate between first offenders and hardened criminals. The probation officers will be employed, he added, in investigating the circumstances, character and home conditions of many youthful offenders that come before the Courts.

These officers will receive on probation those whom the Courts decide to be worthy of a chance to make good without the stigma of commitment to prison.

Individual Races Seldom Wiped Out by Enemies

The latest census of the Indians in the United States shows they are doing far better than holding their own. There is sound reason for believing there are more than twice as many of the aborigines living than were in existence when the whites began to descend upon the continent.

A government publication put out by the Union of South Africa makes the statement that the white population there is not maintaining its ratio with the increase of the negroes. Failing additions from abroad, says this paper, the prospect of keeping a white civilization in South Africa must fade. The whites may even be forced to abandon the country altogether.

History makes it clear that conquered peoples are seldom really conquered. If they have been in a region a long time they have become far more fitted to the environment than the newcomers. They reproduce faster, as a rule, and suffer less from local diseases. They stick close to their original homes, whereas invaders are often restless and given to moving on. The Saxon type in Britain is said to be a disappearing type before the dark-haired stock that first peopled the islands. The northern barbarians who conquered Italy and Spain have been submerged by the Latin races. Rumanians think of themselves as Latin because that country was a Roman outpost, but the Rumanian stock is a Slav stock now.

The Indians, few as they are in comparison with other races, may possibly outlive several of the elements of our present population. Their big chance would come when some violent disturbance forced a struggle for survival with nature in the raw and rough.

Early English Kingdoms

Heptarchy was the name given to the seven principal kingdoms established by the Saxons in England at various times from the Fifth to the Ninth centuries. They were as follows: Essex, Sussex, Wessex, Kent, East Anglia, Mercia, and Northumbria. In 828 A. D. these various petty kingdoms were united under one government by Egbert, king of Wessex, who was from that time styled king of England. The word heptarchy means seven governments.—Kansas City Star.

MILLION OHIO SCHOOL YOUTH WILL HEAR ARBOR DAY RADIO PROGRAM

GOV. AV. DONAHEY EDMUND SECREST PROF. W. O. THOMPSON

The largest audience of Ohio school youth ever assembled in the history of the State will hear the Arbor Day program that is to be broadcast from Columbus station Friday afternoon, April 17, between two and three o'clock eastern standard time.

The program is being sponsored by the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs under the direction of Mrs. W. W. Milar, Akron, chairman of the division of conservation of National and State federations. Through the local organizations, in every county, affiliated with the State organizations arrangements are being made to have radio receiving sets placed in all the public and parochial schools of Ohio. It is expected that more than 1,000,000 Ohio school children will hear the program.

Governor A. V. Donahey will broadcast his Arbor Day proclamation. Hon. Martin L. Davey, member of Congress from the Fourteenth Ohio district, and the leading exponent in Congress of reforestation and a government policy of conservation, will deliver an address on conservation. Short talks will be made by President W. O. Thompson, of Ohio State University, Vernon M. Reigel, State superintendent of instruction, Edmund Secrest, State forester, and officers of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs. Musical organizations of Ohio State university and Columbus schools will furnish music.

The program will be broadcast from WBAV, 294 meters, the Erner & Hopkins station in Columbus. It is the first time in the history of the State that a radio program of such magnitude has been prepared for broadcasting to the public and parochial schools. The Ohio Federation of Women's clubs has a membership of 300,000 and has organizations in every county of the State.

VET REPAYS HIS DEBT TO CANINE

Saved by Animal in Argonne, Returns Service.

Chicago.—When Horace Love, torn by machine gun bullets, was waiting death in No Man's Land, a dog saved his life. Recently he saved that dog. Love, now a student at Northwestern university, was wounded severely while fighting in the Argonne, when the dog, Bolivar, then working for the German Red Cross, found him, went back to surgeons and took them to the stricken man. Later American forces captured the position, and when Love returned to this country he brought Bolivar with him. About a month ago Love, with another student, lost Bolivar while exploring the desolate regions of Skokie valley. For days they searched in vain.

Meanwhile reports were brought in by motorists that a "wolf" had been seen running across the back land.

Love, still at his quest, was stopped by a policeman because his car lacked a license tag. At a suburban police station he explained his search.

"Why, we've got a dog like that," the sergeant said. "Caught him—f took half a dozen of us—after he had scared folks on the roads. He looks half starved; he's scheduled to be shot this morning."

"You'll have to shoot me first," Love said.

Bolivar was brought in. He was a skeleton. But he cleared the room at one bound and almost floored his master with his joyous assault.

There will be no "execution."

Average Wife's Expenses

The average American housewife, according to an inquiry by the United States Department of Labor, spent $1.95 last year for a silk undershirt, $2.82 for a silk chemise, $5.48 for a silk nightgown, $7.30 for a silk kimono, 37 cents for a pair of cotton stockings, $1.22 for a pair of silk stockings, $5.34 for a pair of shoes, $1.88 for a pair of kid gloves, 15 cents for a handkerchief, 21 cents for a pair of garters, $2.01 for an umbrella and $1.60 for a handbag. Her total yearly expenditure for clothes was $63.55, while her husband's was $71.33.—Ohio State Journal.

No Pews in Cathedral

The prevailing style of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine is French Gothic. One of the characteristic features is that there will be no pews, but movable benches will be used instead as in the old cathedrals. There will be a seating capacity of 7,000, with standing accommodations for several thousand more.

KEEPING WELL

TAKING ANTITOXIN TO NOME

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

THE dog team race to Nome was a front page story while it lasted. And no wonder! If heroism in war time is worthy of medals and honors, surely bravery and endurance, shown in efforts to save life instead of to destroy it, are equally deserving. The story is theatrical enough for a movie plot or a best seller.

Nome, one of the farthest North of human settlements, is cut off from the world for six months of the year. A little town of a thousand people, of which three hundred are Eskimaux and two hundred children, it has only one physician, Dr. Curtis Welch, of the United States public health service.

Shortly after the close of navigation and following the arrival of the last ship from the South, a number of cases of "sore throat" appeared among the natives and the white children. The infection was probably brought by some sailor.

About the middle of January, an unmistakable case of diphtheria developed in an Eskimaux child. Dr. Welch at once stopped public gatherings, quarantined all suspicious cases and gave those already infected all the antitoxin on hand. But there was not enough. A supply was ordered by wireless from Seattle. But steamer and railroad could only bring it to Anchorage, 650 miles away.

By this time, there had been five deaths, 22 plain cases, 30 suspected cases, and 50 more exposed. Over 100 out of 1,000 or one person out of every ten in the town, was affected. Nome must have antitoxin or be wiped out.

Antitoxin is the only remedy man has ever discovered that will control diphtheria. Individual cases may recover under other treatment or no treatment at all. But the only thing that will stop an epidemic is antitoxin.

Railroads and steamships were of no use. Airplanes were unavailable. So man fell back on his best friend, the dog. Over 650 miles of frozen waste, in relays of dog teams and drivers, fighting every foot of the way against Arctic blizzard and deadly cold, went the life-saving serum.

And it got there in time, breaking all records for dog-sled travel. If Nome doesn't put up a monument to Gunnar Kasson and Balto, his lead dog, it will be lacking in appreciation of this brave pair. Also don't forget Klebs, the German scientist, who found the germ of diphtheria in 1884, or Behring, who first made antitoxin in 1894. Without these two men, this terrible disease could not be controlled.

FOCH'S WAR CAR CREATING PUZZLE

Vehicle in Which Armistice Was Signed Now Ruin.

Paris.—The authorities are at a loss to know what to do with Marshal Foch's famous wartime sleeping car headquarters, in which the armistice was signed.

At present the car stands in the courtyard of the Invalides building, where it is fast becoming weather-beaten. The only way of preserving it from the elements in its present position is to build a shed over it, but General Mariaux, custodian of the military museum of the Invalides will not permit Mansard's famous courtyard to be disfigured by such a structure.

The mayor of Compiègne has offered to return the car to the Rethondes sidetrack, where the armistice was signed, and there build a suitable shelter over it at the expense of the Compiègne municipality, but the minister of war is unwilling to accept this offer, as the car is one of the principal exhibits at the Invalides museum, for which admission is shortly to be charged.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that to allow its entrance to the courtyard, four inches had to be taken off the archway, and to remove it would necessitate a repetition of that operation.

Meanwhile, the changeable climatic conditions continue their destructive work on the famous car.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

COLORADO'S TYPE OF SOLDIER BOYS

John Charles Vivian, attorney of Golden, Colo., now commander of the Colorado department of the American Legion, got tired of governmental red tape during the war. He decided to do a little unraveling himself. He had been under consideration for a commission as major in the judge advocate's department. But the matter hung fire. The commission did not come.

So one day he enlisted as a private in the marines. On the same day that he closed up his law books, his younger brother, Chauncey H. Vivian, then editor of the Boulder (Colo.) News-Herald, dropped the editorial shears, jabbed the brush into the paste-pot and enlisted also—as a private in the marines.

The brothers served together, the younger brother as a private in the squad of which the older was corporal.

John Charles Vivian.

They were discharged together. Later on they were during the same year commander of their respective posts of the Legion.

The new department commander has been chairman of various departmental committees. He has been alternate national executive committee-man for Colorado and chairman of the rehabilitation committee for District 11.

Mr. Vivian, who was born at Golden in 1887, was a newspaper reporter while he was studying in the University of Colorado from 1905 to 1911. Then he became state editor of the Denver Times in 1911-1912. He received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of Denver in 1913.

Since his graduation he has held various civil offices. He was special counsel to the city attorney of Denver in 1913-1914. He was federal food administrator for Jefferson county in 1918. He later became city attorney of Golden and county attorney of Jefferson county.

Will Seek Amendment to Compensation Act

Declaring that the provision of the adjusted compensation act is unjust which requires a wife, child or parent of a deceased veteran to show dependency at the time of the veteran's death in order to collect the compensation in case the soldier had not filed application for insurance, officials of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion will launch a campaign to have the law amended.

Under the present law, if a veteran dies before filing a claim for insurance, only a wife, child or parent can collect in the order named and the claimants are required to show that they were dependent upon the veteran at the time of his death. Efforts will be made to have the law changed so that the three classes of claimants can collect regardless of dependency.

Not a Kick!

"I just stopped in to tell you," began the man at the complaint desk of the gas company. "That my gas stove blew up yesterday."

"Tell your troubles to a plumber," growled the surly clerk. "That's no fault of ours—you got no kick here."

"Oh, I'm not kicking," replied the customer cheerfully, as he opened the door. "Only I thought I'd tell you that your blamed old slot meter back-fired at the same time, and I haven't been doing anything but pick up silver quarters all over the cellar ever since. Good day!"—American Legion Weekly.

Cleaning Up the Mess

Brown, during the absence of his wife, was giving a stag party. Bottles, dishes and cigar butts were scattered about in profusion. At the height of the revelry Brown was called to the door, and came back with a telegram in his hand.

"Boys," he cried in consternation. "It's from my wife. She'll be home in an hour. What'll we do?"

There was a moment of stunned silence and then Smith jumped up.

"I have it!" he shouted. "Let's burn the house down!"—American Legion Weekly.

Metal in Home Decoration

Dame Fashion has a way of repeating herself. This is proved by the accent now being given to the use of brass and copper in home decoration—a use as old as brass itself; a use which emphasizes the old-fashioned open fireplace, the quiet light of candles.

As one writer on the subject of interior decoration puts it, "Always to be counted on to do their part in making cheerful a drab interior, brass and copper, with their scintillating surfaces have been put to the test and have not yet been found wanting."

The revival and increase of the use of brass and copper have brought to the fore the business of the metal crafts as expressed in articles fashioned after the styles in vogue in Colonial days.
